MAKING ROOM FOR PERSONALITY

Press Release
September 2017

- THE NEW JW TABLE -

Montana is launching a new table designed by the Danish designer, Jakob Wagner. True to Montana's design DNA, the table is sharp, yet soft. Light, yet solid.

The look of the new JW Table is light and delicate with the frame tucked under the table top and with the slim triangular legs angled slightly outwards to allow unrestricted leg space. Despite the delicate, sharp look of the frame, the structure ensures a solid stability. The JW table comes in a round and square shape, versatile and functional enough to fit perfectly in a private dining room as well as in a corporate conference room.

The JW Table comes with a table top in a total of eight different materials: JW White silk laminate, linoleum in the colours Black and New Nordic, veneer in White Oak, Burned Oak and Black Oak as well as Massive Douglas and Massive Oak. The frame comes in polished aluminium and lacquered in the colours Black and Nordic. Regardless of material and size, the table top comes in one piece except in the veneer version, which is divided along the middle for the two largest rectangular sizes.

Jakob Wagner

Born in Copenhagen in 1963, Jakob Wagner has a BSc. in Design Engineering and later completed his second degree in Product Design at ArtCenter College of Design, Switzerland.

Jakob's work has been exhibited internationally and he has received numerous awards.

"Good design is not about adding a layer of beauty – on the contrary, it is about taking away the unnecessary in order to reveal the essential quality, form and function of an object."
